

DB10 Day this Saturday / Villarreal card display

13/04/06

Story by Ben

Your help / co-operation is required!....

West Brom

The upcoming West Brom game on Saturday has been designated "DB10 Day" in recognition of Dennis Bergkamp's service to the club. It will be an opportunity for all Arsenal fans to show their appreciation to the Dutch Master.

Various events have been organised for the day and there are several "orange" themes to celebrate Dennis' Dutch roots. REDaction are handing out thousands of orange T-shirts on the day to add to the "orange" effect at the ground. We also hope that everyone going to the match wear an orange top for this one-off day! Dennis knows about the event and we hope it's a memorable one in his glittering career!

Villarreal

As you are aware, this Wednesday will be the last ever European game to be held at Highbury! The club have asked REDaction for some help.

They need people to go to Highbury on Wednesday between 10am & 3pm to help put out a card display. Anyone can help do this (with or without a match ticket) - as we will be leaving the ground way before the turnstiles open.

We're sorry to say that the club can not offer any match tickets to people that do come along and help.

If you have any more questions or if you can offer to help - please email Mark markbr@berkeleymorgan.co.uk

Please feel free to pass this email onto anyone else you feel might be able to help!

Regards

The REDaction team